

Dolcera

Web 2.0 Tools for IP Research and Analysis

Abstract:

Dolcera has built a brand new Web 2.0-based platform for patent research and analysis. This platform makes it easy for information professionals, scientists and executives to create and share patent, scientific and market data securely throughout the organization. This highly interactive platform is currently being used by some of world's largest companies as well as by several startups in areas ranging from life sciences an alternative energy to manufacturing and high-tech. Dolcera has a team of scientists in various domains that support the clients and provide high-quality taxonomy development and research support services. In this workshop, Dolcera will demonstrate its platform and world-class IP and innovation processes.
