

Ron Kaminecki

Biography:

Ron currently teaches patent searching at the University of New Hampshire Law School and DePaul Law School, both online and in-person. He has worked at major online vendors or research companies, always in the area of intellectual property. He is a patent attorney with a BS in Chemistry, an MS in Computer Science and a JD with a Certificate in Patent Law and is also a Qualified Patent Information Professional. He is an inventor and is a co-author of a NISO (now an ISO) standard for an online search language and has worked as an expert witness.

He serves on boards and committees in the patent community, and on urban architecture preservation. When not working on patent information, he spends time assembling and fixing bicycles, both electric and acoustic.
